V. Reasoned statement under Rule 66.2(a)(ii) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement1. STATEMENT

Novelty (N)	Claims 3,4 and 7-23	YES
	Claims 1,2,5 and 6	NO
Inventive Step (IS)	Claims 10-18 and 21-23	YES
	Claims 1-9,19 and 20	NO
Industrial Applicability (IA)	Claims 1-23	YES
	Claims NONE	NO

2. CITATIONS AND EXPLANATIONS

Claims 1, 2, 5, and 6 lack novelty under PCT Article 33(2) as being anticipated by Minot et al. Attention is called to Minot's Figures 1-5 and 8; note viewing port 43, fiber optic cable 3, sensor element 24, amplifier 27, output means 26, etc.

Claims 3, 4, 19, and 20 lack an inventive step under PCT Article 33(3) as being obvious over Minot et al. The nominal addition of a computer and storage device for saving and processing Minot's signal output would have been an obvious expedient for recording and evaluating the system's operations.

Claims 7-9 lack an inventive step under PCT Article 33(3) as being obvious over Minot et al in view of Morey. Sensing radiant energy in a turbine's exhaust is an obvious alternative to sensing radiant energy in the turbine's combustor; see Morey's Figure 2, elements 215-218.

Claims 10-18 and 21-23 meet the criteria set out in PCT Article 33(2)-(3), because the prior art does not teach or fairly suggest the various optical and signal processing features described in those claims.

Claim 1-23 meet the criteria set out in PCT Article 33(4) and thus have industrial applicability because the claimed subject matter can be made and/or used in industry.
